Historic Performance

Fund Comment

Inflation persists at stubbornly high levels, with recent readings showing continued elevation. After reaching a four-month high of 5.6% in February, South Africa's headline inflation moderated to 5.3% year-on-year in March. Despite this, short-term projections suggest that inflation may still breach the 5% mark. In Namibia, the inflation rate for March stood at 4.5% (compared to 5.0% in February) but is expected to rise in the coming months. Anticipated rate cuts, which were previously on the horizon, have now faded, leading to a postponement of lower rates until the latter stages of 2024. This shift has contributed to an increase in both South African Treasury Bill rates and bank deposits. In light of the persistent inflationary pressures, Money Market rates remain attractive, particularly in South Africa, a market we are keen to capitalize on.

Who Should Invest

A conservative investor with a short investment horizon, who expects a higher level of monthly income than provided by traditional banking products and requires a highly liquid and available on demand investment option. Retirement funds are not precluded from investing in this fund.
